

One, Two, Three.

One barren of mules, two bebies of roes

Three braces of bucks and a grazing of does

One covey of grouse, two broods of hens

Three clamours of rooks and a richesse of martens

One knob of wigeon, two springs of teals

Three casts of hawks and a creel of sand eels

One cete of badgers, two hosts of sparrows

Three chatterings of choughs and a set of spring harrows

One clowder of cats, two colonies of gulls

Three coverts of coots and a crossbone of skulls

One covey of partridges, two deserts of lapwings

Three doppings of shelldrakes and a flight of red dunlins

One cowardice of curs, two husks of hares

Three droves of cattle and a stud of grey mares

One exultation of larks, two falls of woodcock

Three fields of racehorses and a muster of peacocks

One dule of doves, two kindles of kittens

Three knobs of pochard and a siege of marsh bitterns

One conning councillor, two lying lords

Three hundred MPs-who fell on their swords.

One ,Two, Three